More Than 310 Dead Reported At Moore Haven

RUNOVERS NEEDED IN SEVERAL RACES FOR CITY POSTS

REPORT OF LOSS OF LIFE IS GIVEN BY COL. LOWRY

110 Bodies Have Been Recovered and at Least 200 More Are Declared Decomposing.

PEOPLE REFUSING TO LEAVE HOMES

Citizens May Be Forced To Go to Sebring, However, as Result of Sanitary Conditions.

Sebring, Fla., September 22. (AP)—One hundred and ten bodies have been recovered at Moorehaven and at least 200 more are rapidly decomposing, Colonel S. L. Lowry, Jr., of Tampa, who took control of the region today, told the Associated Press tonight upon his return from Moorehaven.

Of the number recovered from the flooded plains in and about the devastated city, approximately 80 per cent have been identified, the colonel declared, but further effort to identify later recoveries will be abandoned, due to their state of decomposition. It is impossible, he said, to determine whether the bodies are those of negroes or whites.

Sanitary conditions are in a serious condition, and the remaining 200 citizens, who have flatly refused to evacuate the city, will be taken from the region and sent to Sebring as additional refugees, if the regimental surgeon, Dr. Beavis, deems such a move necessary. The commanding officer was tonight awaiting such a decision, he said.

In the event such a move is decided upon, the colonel said that a check would be made of every individual as they passed in line for food and other rations just what their reason for staying was. It is expected that the town will be completely evacuated in 48 hours and only the remaining soldiers on duty to complete the work of disposing of the bodies.

The military control will be operated from a base at Orona, about eight miles from Moorehaven, being transferred from Palmdale shortly after being established today. Colonel Lowry returned to Sebring for a

Life and Homes Lost But Miami Spirit Unbroken

"Open for Business With a Smile," Says Sign on Front of Flagler Street Store.

BANK OFFICIALS ARE NOT WORRIED

Paradise of Pleasure-Loving Tourists Will Be Rebuilt Rapidly, Sam Small Predicts.

BY SAM SMALL.
(Special Correspondent).

Miami, Fla., September 22.—In the big hurricane these Miami people lost some lives and property but they lost none of their spirit and nerve.

Typical is the sign on one Flagler street battered store front: "Open for business with a smile."

All have not a smile, for many have sorrow and worry to carry, but nearly all have that set face that bespeaks faith and the courage to carry on. The first utterances of the newspapers were those of "ill despatch" and the call to a high determination that Miami shall not hesitate an hour in the work of restoration and the forward march to her manifest destiny.

These leaders got quick reaction from the permanent business elements and already the work of rehabilitation in the city is going forward with all the energy and agencies employable.

Rebuilding Called Certain. In the newspaper offices they say they are certain that "next week will be something else again" and little will remain of the hurricane's terrors and effects to be written about.

In the banks the officials are not a whit worried over the losses by the big blow but confidently predict quick recoveries by affected business men and that Miami will "do business as usual" and more substantially than ever in the coming season. They are advised that all the money needed for carrying the substantial enterprises of the city will be forthcoming, on demand.

Leaders Are Optimistic. The leaders in trade all along the main thoroughfare have the like optimism and from none of them can you hear any fear that Miami will be halted, set back or particularly ill affected by the temporary results of the hurricane.

Some people of small means who lost homes and belongings are embarrassed but it is believed they will be cared for adequately and put again in the way of recouping their losses and renewing their comforts.

I went over Coral Gables today and found it not so badly damaged

RED CROSS ASKS $4,000,000 FUND TO AID FLORIDA

National Headquarters Sets Amount Needed Between Four and Five Millions of Dollars.

Washington, September 22.—(AP)—The Red Cross national headquarters tonight set between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 as the minimum required for immediate relief work in the Florida storm area. An appeal was issued to the American people to provide the amount at once.

With the National Red Cross firmly at the helm, the work of rescue and relief in the storm-swept sections of Florida is moving apace.

Ha. surveys reveal conditions as even worse than first news had indicated and appeals to the nation for financial assistance and for nurses, medicines and supplies went out yesterday from Miami, the center of the district hardest hit by the storm.

As the flood waters receded and the rescue parties were augmented, additional bodies were found at Miami, Moorehaven, Fort Lauderdale and other points, with the certainty that still others were buried in wrecked buildings and held captive by debris-covered waters.

400 Estimate Too Low. Accurate figures as to the total known dead had not been compiled last night, but rescuers said the total would far exceed 400. As isolated colonies were reached in the Everglades and elsewhere, the number of injured was gradually increased until the total had mounted to around 6,000. Likewise the total of the homeless went beyond the 50,000 mark, with special trains, automobiles and trucks being pressed into service to move them to nearby cities for shelter and care.

Most cases of illness, some believed to have been caused by polluted water, and if necessary to prevent outbreaks of epidemics the entire resources of that service will be put into operation.

Crowded conditions in the stricken towns have been somewhat relieved by military orders barring new entrants into the devastated zone between West Palm Beach and Miami, and by the departure of hundreds of refugees for Jacksonville and other cities.

Those remaining were required to submit to inoculation and vaccination and anti-toxin for this purpose still were being rushed into the storm area by airplanes.

Public Health Service Ready. A survey of sanitary conditions throughout the storm district has been started by Dr. J. H. Linnson, of the United States public health service, and it is necessary to prevent outbreaks of epidemics the entire resources of that service will be put into operation.

Crowded conditions in the stricken towns have been somewhat relieved by military orders barring new entrants into the devastated zone between West Palm Beach and Miami, and by the departure of hundreds of refugees for Jacksonville and other cities.

CHARTER CHANGE ELECTION SECURED WITH BIG MARGIN

Returns From 15 Precincts Give More Than Sufficient Signatories to Petition.

MOVE SPONSORED BY WOMEN VOTERS

Proposal Involves City Manager Form of Government Under Necessary New Charter.

An election on the proposal to change the city charter to council-manager form was assured early Wednesday night when half of the precincts had sent word that a total of 2,167 signers had been obtained for the petition to hold an election. The petition was sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Miss Eleonore Raoul, member of the league, announced Wednesday night that 2,167 signers had been obtained at an early hour and 15 more precincts were to be heard from. Only 2,000 signatures were needed to obtain the election.

The League of Women Voters has sponsored the movement for some time and booths were placed at all polling places in the city, thus giving all voters an opportunity to express their desire for the election. The league explained its attitude was an effort to give voters an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of the change.

No complete count of the petitioners was made Wednesday night. A meeting of the League of Women Voters has been called for 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce building, at which time the total number of signers will be announced.

U. S. IS BROUGHT ONE STEP NEARER TO WORLD COURT

Final Consideration of Project Accepting All Reservations of Senate Set for Thursday.

BY HENRY WOOD.

Geneva, September 22.—The United States was brought a step nearer to membership in the world court when all powers signatory to the court were called into a plenary session for Thursday to consider a formula for American entrance as adopted by the court's drafting committee of 14.

Thursday morning's plenary session will give final consideration to a project which accepts all reservations of the United States senate with the one provision that the United States shall negotiate an understanding with respect to the manner of expressing American consent to the court under the League of Nations council with an advisory opinion.

The advisory opinion comprising the formula adopted Wednesday follows: 1.—Authorization for American participation on a basis of equality in all meetings of the League of Nations council or assembly for the election of world court judges.

2.—Recognition that no amendment to the court's statutes shall be possible without the consent of the United States.

3.—Guarantee that the court shall render all advisory opinions in public sessions.

4.—Provision that the manner in

Survivors Tell of Hardships VIVID TALES OF NIGHT OF TERROR RECOUNTED Facing Sufferers in Storm

Vivid stories of the hurricane at Miami, and its aftermath of suffering, were received in Atlanta Wednesday from two eyewitnesses.

"I have never spent 12 more miserable hours in my life," wrote Paul P. Reese, former Atlanta business man, to his wife here.

"You cannot possibly imagine the fury of the storm," he said. "For the second six hours, when the rain was hardest, from 7 a. m. to 1 o'clock, I kept towels and pails at three windows. I'll bet 50 buckets of water came in those windows."

"About 1:30 o'clock I went over to see what had happened to the Pandeysons—I found them in the telephone room, where they had been since 3 o'clock, when the wind blew in the doors of the sleeping porch. They were frantic."

The whole beach is a wreck—roofs off and half of some houses gone. Furniture ruined. Trees and shrubbery were whipped off and broken, autos blown over; tiles blown off lots of houses. In every instance casement

BUCKNER TRACES MERTON LIBERTY BONDS TO MILLER

Important Development Is Revealed in Metal Assets Case Against Harry M. Daugherty.

New York, September 22.—Two Liberty bonds, totalling $12,000, which Richard Merton had admitted having paid the late John T. King for services in connection with the return of the American Metal company's $7,000,000 assets to Swiss claimants, have been traced to Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian.

This evidence Wednesday was the most important development in the conspiracy trial of Miller and Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, growing out of the deal.

United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner indicated he would attempt to prove that other Liberty bonds, given to King by Merton, were also placed in Miller's account.

Buckner introduced evidence to show that Merton, representing German interests under the name of the Societe Suisse pour Valeurs Des Metaux, had received $7,000,000 in assets of the American Metal company impounded during the war because of alien ownership, through the offices of Miller, Daugherty and King; that Merton had paid King a $391,000 "commission," and that after the commission was paid, the two Liberty bonds appeared in Miller's account at a brokerage concern.

Direct Connection. It was the first time either of the defendants had been connected directly with the money paid to King.

Employees of the stock brokerage house of Swartzott & Appenzeller testified that on April 26, 1922, 1,000 shares of General Motors stock, worth at that time $12,537, were bought for Miller's account, and that two days before the purchase the former alien property custodian had only $639 to his credit. John O'Rourke, a clerk in the brokerage concern, testified that the next day his entry blotter showed the $12,000 in Liberty bonds credited to Miller's account.

The numbers, C-00043203 and C-00095079, were identical with two of the bonds given King by Merton, Buckner showed.

During the afternoon, Colonel W. L. Ham Rand, counsel for Miller, sought to show that the speed with which Merton's claim was allowed—three days—had not set a record.

He introduced evidence to prove that on January 28, 1920, a claim was filed and approved. This claim was one for $10,000 presented by the Baroness Lillian Specht on Stern-

CALLAWAY RETAINS POST AS RECORDER

Dr. P. L. Moon and W. R. Johnson Show Margins of Only 3 Votes, by Unofficial Returns.

Thanks Friends.

Declaring that his campaign was conducted on a "high and honest plane, with no malice or bitterness toward anyone," I. N. Raggsdale, who was elected mayor in Atlanta's primary, issued a short statement Wednesday night in which he thanked "all of his friends for their loyalty and earnest support in the race."

"Particularly do I wish to express my heartfelt gratitude to my many women friends," Mr. Raggsdale said, "who were so instrumental in the success of my campaign."

I. N. Raggsdale, veteran in public service of the city and a former member of the Fulton county commission, was chosen mayor of Atlanta to serve for the next two years in Wednesday's city democratic primary.

Mr. Raggsdale received a clear majority over his four opponents, returns compiled by The Constitution showing that he polled 6,392 votes out of 12,182 cast in the election. J. Allen Couch, alderman, ran second; Dr. L. N. Huff, third; Robert A. Gordon, fourth, and Charles M. Ford, alderman, fifth.

Complete returns to The Constitution showed the count as follows:

Raggsdale, 6,392.
Couch, 2,067.
Huff, 1,635.
Gordon, 1,253.
Ford, 835.

Other Winners. Other winners in the election were:

COTTON GROWERS MOVE TO ATLANTA

Memphis, Tenn., September 22.—The general sales offices of the American Cotton Grower's Exchange, which is the parent body of the 12 state co-operative marketing associations, will be moved to Atlanta the first of next week, it is announced by C. B. Howard, sales manager. At present the sales office is in the suite occupied by the other departments of the exchange at Memphis in the Cotton Exchange building. The other departments, which are those of system, traffic, field service and the general manager's office occupied by C. B. Howard will remain at Memphis.

The move to Atlanta was deemed necessary, Mr. Howard said, in order to have the sales force in closer touch with domestic mills in Georgia and the Carolinas. The exchange, having just increased its force of salesmen dealing directly with mills in the Atlantic states, hopes to enlarge its business with southern mills to a large extent. Southern mills consume about 4,500,000 bales annually, Mr. Howard said.

Best Year in History.

The only executives to go to Atlanta from the Memphis offices are Mr. Howard and his son C. B. Howard, Jr., who is his assistant. The new offices in Atlanta will be in the Atlanta Commercial Exchange building. The exchange is strictly a sales organization, handling all of the cotton collected by the 12 state associations. They sell on type entirely and directly to foreign and domestic mills.

Mr. Howard calls attention to the fact that the cotton cooperatives have just experienced the best year in their history, with nearly 1,500,000 bales handled during the past season. He declared that cooperatives have entered the new season with the outlook for another record breaker in volume of business.

Favors Southern Delivery.

"There are about 300,000 growers in all parts of the cotton belt among the cooperatives," he said. "Farmers are joining the associations daily by the scores. The entire cotton trade, farmers, business men, mills and others are realizing the economical advantages of cooperative marketing of cotton." He declared that the exchange reports a large amount of cotton, having representatives in 13 prominent European centers dealing directly with mills. Cooperative cotton is shipped there in large lots.

Mr. Howard is strongly in favor of southern delivery of cotton at southern ports and the abolition of New York as the exclusive delivery port for New York contracts.

M'ADOO'S FORCES INSERT DRY PLANK

Sacramento, Cal., September 22.—(AP)—The William Gibbs McAdoo wing of the democratic party in California, defeated by anti-McAdoo delegates in the preliminary contest of the state convention which opened here yesterday, came back to hard-fought victory over their opponents early today when, by a vote of 52 to 49, they forced through a resolution appending a bone dry plank to the party platform.

The dry resolution, indorsing the state prohibition enforcement act and condemning efforts to repeal by initiative at the November election, was carried only after long and bitter controversy over methods of voting, the status of proxies and the merits of the question itself.

In the early hours of the convention the anti-McAdoo contingent swept into apparent control of the gathering when David S. Ewing defeated Judge Claude S. Purkitt, of the McAdoo faction, 59 to 56 for the temporary chairmanship of the convention.

The convention adjourned sine die after adopting by acclamation a platform submitted by majority members of the resolutions committee, plus the bone dry amendment forced on the floor of the gathering by the minority members of the committee.

FOUR INDICTED IN METTER DEATH

Metter, Ga., September 22.—(AP)—Indictments charging murder and assault with intent to murder were returned early tonight against Mrs. William M. Davis, her daughter, Susie Lane Davis, Joseph Holloway and M. P. Mosely, by the Metter county grand jury.

The charges are the result of the killing of John Suddeth and the shooting of Alexander Larressy, at the home of Mrs. Davis early Sunday morning, September 12. Suddeth died almost instantly. Larressy was at first believed to be mortally wounded, but is still alive at his home in Brooklet.

All of the defendants are in jail at Metter. Mrs. Davis insists that she fired the shots that killed Suddeth and wounded Larressy, and claims none of the other defendants had anything to do with the tragedy. The prosecution is proceeding on the belief that she is assuming the blame to protect the others.

Wilkes Organizes Force of Wardens To Fight Fires

Washington, Ga., September 22.—(AP)—By the appointment today of 35 wardens—two for each militia district in the county—acting under a county fire warden recently elected, Wilkes county becomes the first county in Georgia organized for the prevention of forest fires, which have exacted a toll of many millions of dollars to young timber.

The East Wilkes Farmers club, headed by J. Luke Burdett, who for many years was county agent for Wilkes, were leaders in the movement, which is expected will spread until every Georgia county is similarly organized. J. F. Cofer, formerly on the county police force of Washington, was elected chief fire warden several weeks ago.

With his staff of assistants in each section of the county named today, the work of forest fire prevention and the creation of a sentiment in favor of protecting the cut-over lands of Georgia in the interest of reforestation has been given strong impetus.

This movement, it is believed, will in the course of a very few years result in a tremendous saving to the farmers of Georgia. Not only in the actual prevention of property loss, but in the conservation of the timber resources of the state. The elimination of carelessness in burning over lands for farming purposes and the fixing of blame for criminal negligence, which is believed to be the source of many costly fires throughout the country—these are some of the good results which county experts expect to reap from their organization of fire wardens.

CONSENT VERDICT IN CUSSETA COURT IN SLAYING CASE

Columbus, Ga., September 22.—(AP)—A consent verdict of guilty of voluntary manslaughter was taken in the case of Ed Gaddy, Chattahoochee county servant man, in superior court at Cusseta today. His punishment was fixed at a minimum of 12 years and a maximum of 18 years in the state penitentiary.

Gaddy was indicted by a grand jury Monday for murder in connection with the killing of Eugene Culpepper at his home six miles from Cusseta in July.

inous evidence which has gone into the record Buckner began his attempt to show that Daugherty and Miller received bonds for their alleged part in the transfer of the American Metal company's assets in 1921.

Solomon Reschkind, an employee of Goldman-Sachs and company, German bankers, of New York, testified that on October 1, 1921, he made a record of the serial numbers of the $394,000 in Liberty bonds which he delivered on that date to Richard Merton.

Merton and King appeared in the banker's office that day and were seen by Reschkind, who, in the presence of Howard J. Sachs, turned the bonds over to the German industrialist.

Merton has testified that a few minutes after the transfer he gave the bonds to the Connecticut politicians, who "rode away uptown in a taxi".

The prosecution, in tracing two of these bonds to Miller's account, claimed that other bonds were deposited by Miller to his own account in a bank here and that some went to the Midland National bank in Washington Courthouse, Ohio, for Daugherty.

POWERS OF COURT TAKE UP U. S. ENTRANCE

which the United States shall consent to the court's rendering an advisory opinion shall be the subject of an understanding to be reached by the United States government and the league council.

8.—Recognition of the right of the United States to withdraw at any time from the court.

6.—Provision that the court protocol shall become effective only when all signatory states have ratified it, including the United States, and it is deposited with the league.

7.—Provision for a reciprocity clause whereby other signatories by a two-thirds decision shall be entitled to withdraw their acceptance of the protocol should the latter fail to give desired results.

8.—Provision for the protocol to remain open for signatures of other states which may later join the court. Relatively to the last half of the fifth American reservation, the commission's report states that when the United States is a party to a case on which an advisory opinion is asked and the court's jurisdiction already has been established, the court would not act without American consent. In cases where the United States is not a party or has an interest she would be granted the fullest equality with states on the council or in the assembly of the league.

It is pointed out that the fifth American reservation is based, however, on presumption that a unanimous vote of the assembly or council is necessary when asking an advisory opinion, and that this point has not yet been established. However, in cases where the majority vote is sufficient, the United States would be guaranteed a position of equality with other nations and in cases where a unanimous vote is necessary she would have the same right as others to exercise the veto power.

GIBSON'S CRITICISM OF LEAGUE HELPFUL.

Geneva, September 22.—Frank criticism by Hugh Gibson, American representative on the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission, of tactics employed by subcommittees of that body, is admittedly the most constructive effort yet made to save the arms conference from disaster before its convening.

Concentration on technical preparation of military, aerial and naval questions was urged by Gibson in his criticism of the subcommittee work before the plenary session of the preparatory commission. Progress was virtually impossible, he declared, unless the technical subcommittees put aside economic and political aspects of disarmament and with them special needs of individual nations. All such problems, Gibson maintained, should be left for consideration by the disarmament conference itself.

He urged that all questions studied by the subcommittees to date be revised and that all reports on such questions be limited purely to the technical points involved. He declared that all findings of the subcommittees to date represented the views of only a limited number of states, as a majority of those empowered to vote had abstained from doing so.

Gibson's charges resulted almost immediately in appointment of a committee with the American representative as chairman and empowered to draft a resolution instructing the subcommittees to confine their efforts to technical aspects of questions considered. The committee also was instructed that instead of settling questions by a majority of votes, as in the past, the subcommittees should submit reports showing the states holding divergent views.

League members, in commenting favorably on the Gibson move, admitted that conflicting national and political interests virtually were checking all progress of the league's disarmament work.

Holder Charges Pro-Bond Men Would Control Hardman If He Is Elected Governor

Candidate Tells Lexington Audience 'Reactionary Politicians' Would Rule State.

Lexington, Ga., September 22.—(Special.)—In the event of Dr. Lamartine Hardman's election as governor of Georgia, the affairs of the state will be dictated by "that bunch of pro-bond and reactionary politicians, headed by Governor Clifford Walker and W. T. Anderson," declared John N. Holder in a speech at Lexington, Tuesday morning. He asserted that Governor Walker and Mr. Anderson would "pull the strings from behind the curtain, just as they are pulling the strings for Dr. Hardman's campaign."

The Walker machine, Mr. Holder charged, sits in almost continuous session at the state capitol these days, "planning and plotting and scheming to defeat me and elect Dr. Hardman."

"Running in and out of these conferences at the capitol are Twitty, head of the game and fish department; John Vandiver, head of the state tax department; Jim Dozier, head of the state revenue department; W. R. Neel, chief engineer of the highway department, who holds the principal appointing power in that department and many others.

"They are in day and night sessions, and Governor Walker is so busy with them that he hasn't found time to consider the recommendation of the Fulton county grand jury, made three weeks ago, that T. R. Bennett be removed as head of the state banking department because of his failure to protect the interests of the depositions in the chain of banks which were recently wrecked.

Supporters in Charge.

"I put you on notice now that if Dr. Hardman were to be elected governor, Cliff Walker, Bill Anderson and their crowd of pro-bonders and reactionary politicians would be in charge of the state's affairs. Dr. Hardman would be content to be known as Governor Hardman, and these fellows would see to it that he had plenty of advice and assistance."

"But, of course, provision has to be made for Cliff, for when he leaves the governor's chair he will not be able to make a living practicing law."

"Dr. Hardman charged in his speech here that I am riding about the state making my campaign in an automobile which cost $4,000 and which is the property of the state. That, like nearly everything else he charges, is untrue. I am making my campaign in a Dodge automobile which was loaned me for the purpose by a friend who is opposed to state bonds, and who believes that Georgia will suffer if bonds are issued."

Evading the Issue.

"Dr. Hardman seeks to divert the attention of the voters from the real issue of this campaign—bonds or no bonds—by shouting 'machine, machine.' It is nothing but a political slogan, a cry of 'wolf, wolf.' He charges that I am a part owner in a machine which he says was headed by J. J. Brown.

"Then Dr. Hardman charges that I control and manipulate a great highway department machine. The facts are that the only appointment I have in the department is the appointment of my stenographer. Other appointments are made by the chief engineer, who is against me in this race. The only voice I have in any of these or any other appointments is when they are submitted to the highway board for confirmation. There are three members of the highway board, and I can cast but one vote out of three. So, you see, the charge that I have a political machine in the highway department is untrue, like all the other charges they have brought against me."

Mr. Holder Tuesday visited Covington and Mansfield in Newton county, and Monticello, Macon and Slatersdale in Jasper county; Wednesday he visited Watkinsville in Oconee county and this city in Oglethorpe county. In all four counties his supporters are confident Mr. Holder will carry them on October 6. Mr. Holder was introduced here by Rev. T. S. Cunningham, a prominent minister of Lexington, who paid Mr. Holder a high tribute for his services to the state.

L. J. STEELE SPEAKS TO CHAMBER BODY AT LUNCHEON MEET

Leslie J. ### MARIST SENIORS ELECT MARTIN AS CLASS HEAD

Robert Martin, young son of R. H. Martin, has been named president of the senior class of Marist college and also has been chosen as editor-in-chief of the Blue and Gold, the monthly paper published by the students, it was announced Wednesday. Addison Smith was named vice president and Charles Andrews was named treasurer.

It is the first time in the history of the school that any student has been honored with both offices during his senior year, according to Rev. Father D. S. Rankin, principal of Marist. In addition to his academic activities, young Martin is alternate captain of the 1926 Marist football team.

Other officers of the Blue and Gold staff are George Craft, exchange manager; Lindsey Hopkins, sports editor; Harold Hirsch, business manager and Doc Ballenger, assistant business manager.

HOLDER WILL SPEAK IN NEWNAN SATURDAY

John Holder, candidate for governor, will speak at Newnan Saturday instead of in Carrollton as was announced several days ago. Mr. Holder will speak in Carrollton, Bremen and other points in Carroll county early next week, it was announced from his campaign headquarters.

Other speaking dates for Mr. Holder have been announced as follows: Thursday, 1 p. m., Franklin, Heard county.

Friday, 10:30 a. m., Greenville, Meriwether county.

Friday, 7:30 p. m., Manchester, Meriwether county.

Saturday, 3 p. m., Newnan, Coweta county.

It was announced at Holder headquarters that Mr. Holder will continue actively on the stump to the eve of the primary on October 6, and that the completed itinerary will be announced next week.

New teachers appear on the faculties of the school of commerce, the school of education, in the zoology department, in the mathematics department, and in the English department.

In the school of commerce, William H. Stouffer, a graduate of the University of Virginia, who has the bachelor and master of arts degrees and the doctor of philosophy degree, is a new associate professor. He will teach Professor John W. Jenkins' course, while he is away studying at Harvard university on a year's leave of absence.

F. N. Campbell succeeds W. Mason Smith, resigned, as adjunct professor of finance and accounting. Professor Campbell has both the bachelor and master of science degrees from the University of Illinois.

T. F. Haygood, a commerce graduate of the University of Georgia class of 1926, will instruct in the school of commerce this year.

Edgar H. Henderson, who received the bachelor and master of arts degrees from Furman university, and the doctor of philosophy degree from Cornell university, comes to the University of Georgia as associate professor of philosophy.

Succeeding Dr. Joseph Krafka, resigned, as professor of zoology is George Hugh Boyd, formerly of the faculty of Georgia Tech. He has doctor of philosophy degree from Johns Hopkins.

In the English department, F. W. Powell, a master of arts graduate of Yale, is a new instructor. E. M. Everett, University of Georgia graduate, formerly in the mathematics department, instructs in English.

Four new instructors have been added to the teaching staff of the mathematics department, all of them being university graduates: W. E. Sewell, P. R. Hill, D. S. Campbell and Hugh Stanley.

DR. SOULE RETURNS FROM EXTENSIVE TOUR

Athens, Ga., September 22.—(P)—Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, has returned from a 5,000-mile tour of the eastern states and part of Ontario, Canada, where he made an exhaustive study of various colleges and industrial plants using electricity exclusively.

Dr. Soule made his trip at the direction of the board of trustees, who acted upon the suggestion of H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of the Georgia Railway and Power company.

The trip was undertaken in order to formulate plans for the electrification of the Georgia State College of Agriculture by the Georgia Railway and Power company. Dr. Soule has a tentative plan under consideration but said he hopes to announce something definite in the next few days.

Atlanta Is Asked To Raise $100,000 To Assist Florida In Hour of Storm and Loss

$40,000 Already Contributed, With Gifts Coming Fast After Mass Meeting on Wednesday.

An appeal to Atlanta to raise more than $100,000 for relief work in Florida as part of the $400,000 fund requested by the American Red Cross, was made Wednesday at a mass meeting at the Forsyth theater. Of this amount approximately $40,000 has been raised and more is hourly pouring into Red Cross headquarters here.

It is hoped that Atlanta's quota will be raised immediately and leaders at the meeting asked that the fund be subscribed at once so that "sufferers in a sister state be relieved at once." Many contributions were made at the meeting, which was called by Mayor Walter Sims at the request of the local chapter of the Red Cross.

Robert S. Parker, president of the Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross, presided after Mayor Sims had opened the meeting with a short address. The meeting was attended by a representative gathering of business men and women and expressions of confidence that Atlanta would come to the front and contribute liberally to the storm-stricken sections were heard on all sides. Invocation was pronounced by Rabbi David Marx.

Where To Send Checks. Mr. Parker stated in a short talk that some confusion has arisen as to where to send contributions to the fund and named all three Atlanta papers and the local chapter of Red Cross as agencies for gifts. All checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross, he said.

Mr. Parker asked the Rev. N. R. H. Moore, pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal church, to give a short outline of the purpose of the meeting. He asked for help from Atlanta and Georgia and declared that "the call for help must not go unanswered."

"We meet under the gloom of calamity," he said, "which darkens down over the nation. The sheer brute strength of nature, shorn of all her loveliness, has struck a sister commonwealth and exacted an appalling toll."

"Make Fleet Our Aid." "When word of our neighbor's wounds first reached us for a moment the nation stood paralyzed, and then, in the twinkling of an eye, the United States proved their unity of compassion, strength and service. Amid the horror of scenes indescribable, save by the weird genius of the camera, men and women were mobilized, and rushing wind with noble fortitude, 'bloody but unbowed,' the citizens of our sister commonwealth have proved their manhood and womanhood. We must prove ours. Their courage must be matched by our compassion; their faith by our joyous generosity."

"Let us harness our resources and drive them to point of need. Let us make fleet our aid and clothe our material gift with garment of faith and hope and love."

While many contributions were made at the meeting, others continued to pour in and other means of assistance to the sufferers were offered. Many civic and fraternal organizations have pledged their full support of plans for relief and many individuals gave liberally.

Constitution Donations. Donations which were sent to the Constitution to be given to the Red Cross Tuesday are as follows: G. F.

Willis, $100; Mrs. G. F. Willis, $100; E. A. B., $25; Colonel and Mrs. Henry S. Wagner, $25; L. D. Duffee, $1; Hanson McNamara, $10; Red Cross chapter, Columbia, $125; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Johnson, $10; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Clarkson, $5; Mrs. Kate K. Pace, $200; Ga. $25; H. R. Straight, Democrat, Ga. $2; Carl F. Hutchinson, $3; Mrs. S. M. Ruskin, 54 West Tenth street, $2; Blue-Life company, $25; Mrs. Norman G. Meade, $5; American Savings Bank, $100; Mrs. C. C. Cary, $250; D. W. Chennault, 200 N. Ashby street, $10; A. L. Glass, $5.

The following donations were made at the meeting Wednesday: $100; Georgia Railway & Power company, $1,000; R. K. Rambo company, $100; Marcus Lohr company, $100; J. J. Orme, $100; Walter Ballard company, $100; Sloan Paper company, $100; Parks Chambers Hardwick company, $100; L. J. Daniels, $100; Atlanta Casket company, $100; Carter Electric company, $200; Al Thornwell, $100; St. Luke church, $100; Arthur Howell, $100; Capital City Laundry, $100; Baptist Tabernacle, $200; Nat Kiser & Co., $30; Palmer, Inc., $100; L. D. Scott, $30; Mrs. T. C. Laurens, $100; Lions club, $125; A. L. Rhodes, $50; Edwin P. Stewart, $25.

Negatives To Meet. A mass meeting of negroes will be held Sunday afternoon at the Paramount theater, on Auburn avenue, to give colored people a chance to contribute to Atlanta's efforts. Many organizations have pledged their support and already many contributions have been made. The Red Cross will cooperate by supplying speakers for the meeting.

conference with local relief committee heads to perfect a permanent relief committee which would supply him at his base with all requisitioned requests.

Red Cross Aide Arrives. J. A. Hendrix, of the Washington Red Cross, arrived here late this afternoon to act as emergency director for the organization in conjunction with civic relief committees.

At a conference with E. J. Durkin, president and secretary of the local chamber of commerce and director of relief work here among refugees and also supplying the needs of those still in Moorehaven, Hendrix and two other relief workers, Colonel Lowry discussed the organization of a permanent relief committee, which will be directly responsible for all relief work at Sebring. The chamber of commerce committee will continue in charge, but its name will be known as the emergency Red Cross disaster relief committee.

SHATTERED MIAMI OPENS FOR BUSINESS

First reported. Founder Merrick and his colleagues are at work restoring it again to turn on full steam ahead in its marvelous development.

Hialeah, the hell-crozier resort of the sporting elements, male and female, white and black, is in very complete ruins and ought never to be resurrected on its old disreputable basis.

Miami Beach, the paradise of the plutocrats, was hard hit, but is yet inaccessible to a full survey and no one can estimate its real condition.

Lehman identified.

The only men of Atlanta identified among the dead in the Miami area are Tison K. Lehman, the son of A. O. Lehman, and Isadore Schach, both of whom were previously reported. In the long list of injured, former residents of Atlanta were not specified making it impossible to recognize any of the known casualties as Atlantians.

The famous coconut grove at Lashley inn, which was the former Fort Lauderdale home of the late Senator Tom Watson, was totally destroyed but the home itself weathered the storm. All the Atlantians I met here are well and had few losses. They are cheerful over Miami's recovery. Superintendent Camp, of Atlanta, came with Pullman equipment for relief and has been a benefactor to many destitute men, women and children, feeding them from a diner and bedding them in extra Pullman sleepers. He is one of the good souls that shine in emergencies like this.

Manager Carroll, late of Atlanta, has headed a tremendously difficult Western Union telegraph equipment with superior ability tonight. They expect to reestablish wire connections with the world direct from Miami, instead of by circuit to the terminal at West Palm Beach. The company has put all available crews on work, laying wires along the ground in the absence of poles and the lack of time to erect others. They expect to have six circuits, in addition to the duplex to Atlanta, in service by midnight. Mr. Carroll certainly has done a phenomenal job and yet kept thousands of people, who are swarming the offices here, from fretting and criticizing the inevitable interruption of national service.

Governor Martin arrived at noon and is offering to local authorities all the resources of the state that he can employ. He feels relieved that the situation is better than his first reports indicated.

Hundreds of Miami residents who were away on vacation are arriving and others are enroute, to look after their possessions or business.

Report Corroborated.

I went over the hurricane route by airplane today and found confirmation of my earlier reports that damage done by the big wind was greatly overstated in first news sent out from here. Not more than five thousand average homes will need rehabilitation to be again tenable. Interior furnishings cannot be estimated.

Ross Reeder, officially in charge of house relief and reconstruction, said today that ten millions would be needed for the work which again confirms estimate I made in my first dispatches. Money needed for the work was appealed for by official broadcast today and quick and adequate response is expected. National Red Cross officials have been given plenary charge of relief funds and agencies with all needed doctors, nurses and medical supplies.

No other Atlanta casualties are known to the records. Miami newspapers resumed full publications today, filled with storm details, but with few outside dispatches.

Telegraph companies and postoffice authorities have cooperated effectively to deliver messages and letters to anxious Miami residents. The Venable After fifty years' experience in reporting, including several of the greatest national calamities, I have never known a people to recover their faith.

The death roll has been carefully checked and for greater Miami stands at 99 tonight, 30 at Hollywood and as many more in the smaller towns together.

The body of Jennie Smith, killed at Hialeah, was shipped to Atlanta today and that of Thomas V. Ayers to Lulu, Ga.

David F. McGee, of Atlanta, is reported among missing.

No other Atlanta casualties are known to the records.

Winners of Council Races in Wednesday's Primary

and energies so quickly and it can be taken for sure that Miami is not going to fade out. She is resolved to be bigger and better than ever.

ESTIMATES OF DEAD IN MIAMI DIFFER

(By Associated Press.)

"Accurate figures as to the total known dead in Florida had not been made by Wednesday night, but reports said the total would be above 400. Miami's official death list announced today 99 but opinions as to the final count were widely at variance. The undertaker in charge of compiling the list estimating it at not more than 70 while C. A. Collins, head of the missing persons bureau expressed the belief that at least 750 more persons had perished. Mr. Collins pointed out that 300 bodies had been lying in Biscayne Bay since the storm.

The Moorehaven known death list stood at 110 with estimates of at least 200 more were unaccounted for and decomposed, according to L. L. Lowry, Jr., Miami, in charge of troops at the demolished city on the western banks of Lake Okechobee.

As isolated sections were searched the number of injured increased and was estimated at more than 6,000, of whom more than 1,000 were in Miami hospitals.

STREETS OF MIAMI ARE BUSY SCENE

Miami's streets, cleared of debris, were thronged today with citizens hurrying about the business of rehabilitation four days after the storm.

Seventeen automobiles are visible in the bay alongside the Venable beach, connecting Miami with Miami Beach. Smith cottages, a group of some 300 one and two-story apartment houses which lined the south end of Miami Beach literally were washed away. No accounting has been made of the many persons who lived in that community.

The first report from the Seminole Indians of the Everglades near Hialeah, 14 miles from here, indicated that Chief Tony Tommy had lost 100 of his followers. He usually heads a group of 150, but today when he emerged from the recesses of the Everglades it was with a story that he "left many behind."

J. O. Irvin, city editor of the Miami News, watched the effects of the storm from the south end of Miami tower, 200 feet from Biscayne bay, and he thinks that 30 of a group of 50 persons were washed to their doom when the tidal wave reached shore to grasp them. He said they came out in bathing suits during the lull which preceded the tidal wave and were along shore observing the effects of the hurricane when they were engulfed.

Mr. Irvin said that 50 empty automobiles parked along Biscayne boulevard disappeared when the water swept back. The newspaperman, eyewitness, added his word to that of Mr. Collins as to the probable loss of life when the great wave swept from the bay. Persons held on the mainland by the hurricane misinterpreted the meaning of the lull which followed and dashed to the island, only to be trapped.

Waterfront Damaged. While down town Miami failed to display in her streets marks of the storm, the waterfront gave its grim evidence of the fury of the elements with its outstanding sentinels of stripped Royal palms, whose leaning trunks alone remained.

The Esmeralda, a handsome yacht of approximately 700 tons, sank in the bay. The Nohab, given the kaiserine of Germany by the Krupp sisters, which finally came here as a supper club rendezvous, was swept from its moorings of the Daily News tower a mile southward and sunk. It blocks the mouth of Miami river.

The four-master Mystery J ran ashore in front of the News tower, also the scene of the sinking of the yacht Valcourt.

Three dredges working on the $1,000,000 harbor project sank. Only six members of their total crew of 40 have been accounted for. The four-master Mystery J ran ashore in front of the News tower, also the scene of the sinking of the yacht Valcourt.

More than a score of nationally known buildings in Miami and Miami Beach show the severe strains to which the hurricane subjected them.

Outstanding is the $1,400,000 18-story Myers-Kieser bank building, which was twisted at its middle floor, and has been condemned.

In Miami the George Washington hotel, under construction, was damaged to the estimate of $500,000. The roof was blown off the Everglades hotel, and its tower had to be condemned. The roofs were lifted from the Alcazar and Watson hotels. The east wing of the Royal Palm hotel was caved in. All the windows were blown in and the Henrietta owners also suffered heavy water damage.

The Julia Tuttle apartment hotel perched at the world through poleless walls, which reached the third floor.

Across the bay on the island of Miami Beach, winter playground of the rich, the $2,000,000 Roney Plaza hotel was damaged seriously by water, which reached the third floor.

The Fleetwood and Flamingo hotels lost parts of their roofs, as did the Nautilus. The Wofford hotel was damaged by wind and tide as well as the water's edge, was damaged by waves. The half completed $1,000,000 pier was washed away. The King Cole and Lincoln hotels were damaged generally.

Firestone Home Damaged. The first of the main house on the estate of Harvey Firestone was blown away. The sea wall protecting the home of James M. Cox, publisher of the Miami News and former Democratic presidential candidate, was crushed.

The estate of the late William Jennings Bryan was hit rather badly. The celebrated sunken gardens and shrubbery of the James E. Deering estate, at Miami, were completely erased. The main residence escaped damage, but a caretaker's house was damaged.

The windows of the Miami-Biltmore hotel were broken.

Prostrate under the ravages of the tropical hurricane and with suffering and injury to the thousands of people, Miami today appealed to the American people for a vast sum for relief and rehabilitation work.

The manager of the mayor and Harry M. Baker, national director of disaster relief for the American Red Cross, had arrived here and taken charge of relief work in all of the stricken districts of Florida. It was signed by an executive committee headed by Frank B. Shuts, publisher of the Miami Herald.

Since the mayor and City Manager Wharton in a proclamation, designated the American Red Cross as the official relief organization for the city to handle all funds and direct all rehabilitation measures.

While awaiting a response to the urgent cry for help, the city, with the aid of federal, state and local agencies, went courageously ahead with its relief work. Thousands of doctors, nurses, soldiers, sailors, marines and other relief workers were sent to the injured and the homeless and to recover the dead still imprisoned in many of the 5,000 homes that had died from exposure. A Russian colony, isolated since the storm in the northern section of the Everglades, was rescued by members of the American Legion and a marine detachment from Fort Myers.

Blue Jackets Get Bodies. After American bluejackets had taken sixteen bodies from wrecked launches and yachts in the harbor, 300 men were put to work early today along the two miles of waterfront, where once stood the piers for coastwise and pleasure craft.

Each man was armed with a grappling hook. The first that splashed through the debris covering the waters found a body—that of a sailor, from the yacht Nabob, once the property of the emperor of Germany.

Sailors gathered around watching. There is the crew of this boat or that still missing. Survivors tell tales of heroism. Searchers found that one sailorman had lashed his wife to a tree on an island to keep her from being blown into the sea while he went in search of aid. He started swimming Biscayne bay. Yesterday his body was recovered. There is the story, too, of one man who struggled for eighteen miles with a wounded man on his back. Both are now in the morgue—the one blood to death while the other became a victim of exhaustion.

These are just a couple of isolated tales of heroism that came out of the raging torrens of wind and tide as the storm was at its height. Many another went down to death in efforts to succor loved ones or their fellowmen.

The bodies are slowly being recovered. Three more were taken to the morgue today, bringing the accounted for dead in Miami alone to 97. Hundreds and hundreds were injured, many seriously, and they are being cared for in regular or emergency hospitals and at relief stations.

Communication Established. After five days of practical isolation, Miami got into intermittent communication with the world through an Associated Press leased wire. Over that wire went the appeal for funds and over it, too, is told for the first time just what happened in those long hours when the worst storm in its history lashed the southeastern Florida coast.

The storm raged in full fury. The dredge Savannah, anchored in the harbor, played a searchlight on the hundreds of boats which floundered in the seas and finally were driven on the beach. Silently the newspapermen keeping their vigil in the tower watched the great disaster—before them unfolded one of the greatest stories in Florida history and they were powerless to give the news to the world.

With the lull in the storm the streets quickly filled with people. They thought the storm was over and merely laughed at the newspapermen who undertook to warn them. There were men, women and children, clad in bathing suits, skirting the beach to get a view of the damage to docks and craft.

Suddenly out of the southeast the storm veered back with increasing fury. It came with a deafening roar and with it a big wave rushed upon Miami. Many of the sightseers sought shelter too late.

Storm Rages. For two hours the storm raged. Waves pounded against the tower. Now and then a craft scurrying before the waves hit its walls, veered off and went back into the sea, never to rise again.

Where was the Nancy Lee and the Black Gold, the Jacksonville and the Agay Ann? Suddenly the Nancy Lee was spinning like a top and then she was gone with the captain and the crew. The former kaiser's yacht, its crew refusing to get off during the lull, breaks in two and disappears. Three men struggled toward the tower carrying a woman among them. Men rushed out to them and all were washed up on the steps of the newspaper building. The woman is the wife of the skipper of the Nancy Lee. She had tried to make it to the boat to carry some hot coffee to her husband.

Again there came a lull in the storm. Again the streets were flooded. One rushed down Biscayne boulevard at full speed only to hit a hole. There was a sharp impact, a crash of glass and the dead and injured were thrown into the sea water that covered the street.

Dawn came at last to find a prostrate and isolated city. R. P. Mitchell, the Associated Press correspondent, and Reese Amos, of the Miami News, volunteered to brave the storm to a message to navigation.

"Go boys, God we need it," was the message pounding in their ears as they left the tower. Then hours of waiting. Mitchell and Amos got through. A truck with a West Palm Beach sign on it came thundering into Miami. It brought food. Then came the ambulances and the sailors—and the ambulances with the injured from the outlying districts and trucks with the first of the dead.

Text of Appeal. The text of Miami's appeal follows: "To the American People:

"The city of Miami is compelled to issue an appeal to the people of the United States for the relief of Miami and Dade county. Six days ago this city of 200,000 was one of the most prosperous, beautiful and delightful communities in this country. Today, as a result of a disastrous tropical hurricane, which devastated our coast last Saturday, it lies prostrate.

"We have 100 dead and nearly 1,000 patients in the general and emergency hospitals, hundreds of whom are gravely injured. While conditions are being rapidly restored by means of most wonderful and efficient cooperation of its citizens along all important lines, the problems confronting them are almost insurmountable. Food and other necessary supplies are coming in in great quantities, but we have been blessed by the arrival of a sufficient number of physicians and nurses and ample medical supplies for the immediate present.

Homes Destroyed. "But more than 5,000 homes have been either entirely destroyed or made unfit for human habitation. Twenty-five thousand people have been rendered homeless. These are being cared for in thousands of instances by neighbors who themselves are suffering. Miami is a city of 200,000 people, and it needs it to take care of the poor, sick and injured. It needs it to rehabilitate the homes of thousands who have lost everything in the world and who will die of exhaustion if assistance does not come promptly and amply.

"And so we send out this appeal, believing that the people of this nation will respond cheerfully and quickly to this great necessity. On our part, in return, we can only express our appreciation of the wonderful sympathy and aid which are being shown to our sufferers throughout the whole land, and to venture the hope that we will be able some day and in some way to reciprocate to other suffering communities the favor we are now asking.

"Contributions should be sent by wire or fast mail, addressed to John B. Reilly, treasurer of the relief fund committee, Miami, or to the American National Red Cross, which has been designated by President Coolidge to raise necessary relief funds, of which James H. Gilman, of Miami, is treasurer of the local chapter."

FEW INJURED IN PENSACOLA

Montgomery, Ala., September 22.—(AP)—First direct word out of Pensacola reached here shortly after 2 o'clock today when an airplane from Maxwell field here completed a round trip to the stricken port city. The plane brought back a copy of The Pensacola Journal, reduced in size to only one page of five columns telling a complete story of the havoc wrought in the city.

The situation is not as acute as first reports had said. The water system is working perfectly and no deaths have occurred despite the fact that the wind reached a velocity of 120 miles an hour.

Telephone and electric wires are down all over the city and the streets are filled with fallen poles and trees. A few persons were injured by flying glass and they were immediately taken care of by local hospitals without overcrowding.

The greatest single damage is to the wharf which is described by The Journal as being almost completely demolished at a resultant money loss of $2,000,000.

The Pensacola paper that parts of the wharf will be restored in from a week to ten days but that complete restoration will be accomplished for several months.

The Journal describes the damage throughout the city as "unusually" of an important nature. The water system is working perfectly and no deaths have occurred despite the fact that the wind reached a velocity of 120 miles an hour.

for his opponent, John L. Cone, in his race for reelection to the bench of the first division of recorder's court.

R. F. Pennington, former councilman, who pulled 7,417 votes to 4,233 by his opponent, Dr. Fred Morris, former member of the city board of education, in the contest for alderman from the first ward.

Dr. P. I. Moon, alderman from the second ward, defeated his opponent, Cecil G. Allen, member of city council, by three votes on the face of unofficial returns compiled by The Constitution. In Dr. Moon's race for reelection, in view of the fact that the count was so close, the official consolidation of votes today may change the race. Complete returns compiled by The Constitution gave Moon 5,872 votes and Allen 5,869.

Oscar H. Williamson, incumbent, defeated Alvin L. Richards for the aldermanic seat from the ninth ward. Williamson received 5,855 votes against 5,773 for Richards.

Murphy Defeats Hunter. J. C. Murphy won the post of alderman from the eleventh ward from Foster L. Hunter, former alderman from the fifth. The vote was: Murphy, 6,443; Hunter, 4,990.

Dr. T. Loebe defeated E. Walter Tripp for council from the first ward. Loebe's vote was 111 and Mr. Tripp's 76.

Dr. C. J. Vaughn, incumbent, secured a clear majority over two opponents, Joseph E. Berman and Andrew M. Lane, in the race for councilman from the fourth ward. The complete count was: Vaughn, 444; Berman, 262; Lane, 46.

J. E. Bowden unseated T. C. Morris as representative in council from the fifth ward. Mr. Bowden's vote was 585 as against 574 for Morris.

J. C. Hardy ran ahead of Harry Roberts in the race for council from the sixth ward to fill the unexpired term of M. F. Dowdy. Mr. Roberts was appointed to this post some months ago. Hardy's vote was 425, and Roberts' 243.

York Defeats Two. Harry York was reelected to the councilmanic seat from the sixth ward, securing a clear majority over two opponents, Claude L. Barnwell and A. S. Whitfield. In this race the returns showed: York, 425; Barnwell, 202; Whitfield, 55.

W. Garland Cooper, incumbent, defeated J. D. Wootton in his race for reelection to the councilmanic seat from the tenth ward. Cooper's vote was 631 and Wootton's 545.

W. R. Johnson, on the face of unofficial returns compiled by The Constitution, defeated his only three votes George B. Lyle. This standing also may be changed when the official consolidation is made today. The Constitution's complete figures in the race showed: Johnson, 422; Lyle, 429.

W. E. Saunders, was selected as councilman from the twelfth ward, over his opponent, H. M. Ranton. The count stood: Saunders 550, Ranton 503.

George W. Powell, won a seat on the board of education from the ninth ward, defeating R. M. Mitchell. Dr. Mr. Powell polled 1,094 votes as compared to 679 for Mitchell.

Mrs. A. E. Wilson was reelected to serve on the board of education representing the twelfth ward. She defeated James A. Steele, her vote being 380 as against 262 for Steele.

Three Runovers. Three runovers will be necessary in view of the fact that no clear majority was received by any candidate. These second contests will be:

The judgeship of the second division of police court, in which Murphy M. Holloway, the incumbent, will be opposed by Thomas H. Goodwin, his nearest opponent. Judge Holloway ran far ahead in the field of five seeking the post, and failed by only 710 votes to carry his majority. He led the ticket in every precinct, with Goodwin second in the final count: Arthur B. Knowles third, C. Don Miller fourth and H. O. Davis fifth.

The complete returns in this race showed:

Holloway, 5,193; Goodwin, 2,282; Knowles, 2,012; Miller, 1,713; Davis, 967.

Runover for Council. The post of councilman for the second ward will be contested in the runover by Howard C. McCutcheon and J. W. Weaver, J. W. Bolton, the other candidate for the post, ran third in Wednesday's voting and was eliminated. The complete count was: McCutcheon, 441; Weaver, 336, and Bolton 134.

The place on the board of education representing the third ward, will be sought in the runover by Roy D. Warren, and C. J. McLendon, incumbent. Warren led Wednesday's ticket with 355 votes. McLendon was second with 479, and Thomas C. Smith ran third and was eliminated when he received only 128 votes.

Approximately 65 per cent of the registered voters of Atlanta cast their ballots Wednesday, this unusually heavy voting being attributed to the "get out the vote" campaign, waged by the League of Women Voters, which also secured signatures at the polls to a petition seeking a change of Atlanta's government to the council manager system.

Weather Cloudy. The weather was generally cloudy during the day, showers keeping down the vote during the morning. Up until noon it was reported light, but when the skies cleared somewhat in the afternoon voters flocked to the polls and rolled up a heavy total, approximately 12,200 out of a registration of something more than 19,000.

Details of Voting. In the race for councilman in the second ward, Howard C. McCutcheon received 444 votes, J. W. Weaver 336 and John W. Bolton 134. In precinct A, 246 votes were cast for Mc-

Runover for Council.

The post of councilman for the second ward will be contested in the runover by Howard C. McCutcheon and J. W. Weaver, J. W. Bolton, the other candidate for the post, ran third in Wednesday's voting and was eliminated. The complete count was: McCutcheon, 441; Weaver, 336, and Bolton 134.

The place on the board of education representing the third ward, will be sought in the runover by Roy D. Warren, and C. J. McLendon, incumbent. Warren led Wednesday's ticket with 355 votes. McLendon was second with 479, and Thomas C. Smith ran third and was eliminated when he received only 128 votes.

Approximately 65 per cent of the registered voters of Atlanta cast their ballots Wednesday, this unusually heavy voting being attributed to the "get out the vote" campaign, waged by the League of Women Voters, which also secured signatures at the polls to a petition seeking a change of Atlanta's government to the council manager system.

Weather Cloudy. The weather was generally cloudy during the day, showers keeping down the vote during the morning. Up until noon it was reported light, but when the skies cleared somewhat in the afternoon voters flocked to the polls and rolled up a heavy total, approximately 12,200 out of a registration of something more than 19,000.

Details of Voting. In the race for councilman in the second ward, Howard C. McCutcheon received 444 votes, J. W. Weaver 336 and John W. Bolton 134. In precinct A, 246 votes were cast for Mc-Cutcheon, 170 for Weaver and 77 for Bolton. In precinct B, McCutcheon received 198 votes, Weaver 166 and Bolton 57.

In the fourth ward councilmanic race Dr. Vaughn received 444 votes in precinct A, Berman 166 and Lane 34. In precinct B, 162 votes were cast for Vaughn, 76 for Berman and 12 for Lane.

In the contest for the post of councilman in the fifth ward, Morris received 234 votes in precinct A to 220 for Bowden. Bowden doubled Morris' vote in precinct B, the vote being: Bowden, 233; Morris, 140. In precinct C, Morris received 191 votes to 30 for Bowden.

In the sixth ward councilmanic race to fill the unexpired term of M. F. Dowdy, Hardy received 425 votes in precinct A, 166 for Roberts. In precinct B, 177 votes were cast for Hardy and 77 for Roberts.

Sixth Ward. For councilman from the sixth ward for the full term York received 425 votes in precinct A to 144 for Barnwell and 55 for Whitfield. In precinct B, 183 votes were cast for York, 58 for Barnwell and 20 for Whitfield.

In the race for councilman from a tenth ward Wootton secured 545 votes in precinct A to Cooper's 82. In precinct B, 244 votes were cast for Wootton and 263 for Cooper, while in precinct C Cooper received 286 votes to 73 for Wootton.

In the race for council from the eleventh ward, Johnson received 242 votes in precinct A and Lyle 112. In precinct B, 277 votes were cast for Lyle and 113 for Johnson, and in precinct C Johnson received 57 votes against 40 for Lyle.

In the twelfth ward councilmanic contest, 219 votes were cast for Samuels in precinct A and 136 for Ranton. In precinct B, Ranton received 133 votes and Saunders 107, and in precinct C Ranton received 34 votes to 24 for Saunders.

School Board Races.

In the board of education race in the ninth ward Mitchell received 392 votes in precinct A, 203 in precinct B and 284 in precinct C, making a total of 679. Powell, his opponent, received 278 votes in precinct A, 347 in precinct B and 419 in precinct C, making a total of 1,094.

Warren led in the board of education race in the tenth ward, receiving 117 votes in precinct A, 271 in precinct B and 167 in precinct C, with a total of 555 votes. McLendon received 129 votes in precinct A, 182 in precinct B and 158 in precinct C, making a total of 479. Smith had 31 votes in precinct A, 69 in precinct B and 20 in precinct C, with a total of 128.

In the twelfth ward race for board of education, Mrs. Wilson received 269 votes in precinct A, 146 in precinct B, and 34 in precinct C, and a total vote of 389. Steele received 144 votes in precinct A, 95 in precinct B, and 25 in precinct C, with a total of 264 votes.

Three Unopposed. Three candidates in Wednesday's primary, who never served in their respective positions before, were elected without opposition. The voters named R. E. Gann alderman from the sixth ward. Mrs. Paul West, of the eleventh ward, won her place on the board of education. Jack C. Savage, of the ninth ward, was elected to city council.

Aldermanic Winners

Next Week's Program, With Added Features, To Be Given At Howard Midnight Friday

Money for the relief of human hunger, agony and suffering in storm-stricken Miami and vicinity will be raised Friday night by the Publix Theaters corporation in a monster benefit performance at the Howard theater.

Consisting of the Howard's entire program for next week, with added novelties and features, the benefit show will start at 11:30 o'clock Friday night. Admission will be $1, the entire admission fee to go to the relief of the storm sufferers. The government does not charge war tax on charity performances, and all entertainers and employees of the Howard have agreed to donate their services.

all other costs to be borne by the Publix corporation.

Tickets have been placed on sale at the Howard box office, those purchasing in advance to be given first entrance Friday night. "Come see a bigger and better show than you have ever seen for twice the money, and in so doing contribute to the urgent need of our Florida neighbors who have been the victims of such great misfortune," states an announcement of the performance.

The program will include first views of the Florida storm to reach Atlanta. These pictures were taken by International News Reel, and show the terrible aftermath of the hurricane, the storm sufferers going about the work of salvaging their property, the relief work going on, and the treatment of the injured.

Kelvinator
Lasts longer

IN THE Kelvinator factory there are departments where only expert watch-makers are employed. They work with jewelers' microscopes clamped to their eyes, performing the marvelously accurate tasks to which Kelvinator owes its perfection.

Precision is a gospel in every Kelvinator working part. Nothing is "good enough" that can be made better—regardless of effort or cost. We do not believe that any mechanical product of any kind is more accurately made than are Kelvinator's vital parts.

But it pays. It has resulted in Kelvinator's acceptance as the World's Standard electric refrigeration, and this, in turn, results in the immense volume of sales that permits us to sell Kelvinator at a price lower than that of other systems, size for size and quality for quality.

Visit our display room soon, and let us show you the entire Kelvinator line—the world's most complete.

THE JUNIOR CHAMBER.

The announcement of the Junior Chamber of Commerce that an additional 500 young men are wanted as members should attract much attention among the young business and professional men of Atlanta.

This organization has grown in such a way as to make it outstanding. It has done and is doing a great work.

One of its accomplishments this year was the successful fight against the loan sharks. This attracted so much attention that the National Junior Chamber of Commerce made it one of the four major features of J-C work throughout the country for 1926.

Each year a "Back-to-School Week" campaign has been waged for the purpose of keeping the youth of Atlanta in school. Speakers visit all graduating classes and stress the importance of a complete education.

This work has been instrumental in keeping many boys and girls in high school, and influenced many others to attend college.

Not only is the Junior chamber a dominant force in civic and community life, but also it is proving to be a social factor in the lives of many young men. Its weekly luncheons, annual golf and tennis tournaments, industrial tours, seasonal dances are adding to the pleasure and recreation of its members.

In order that its members may be well rounded and receive intellectual as well as social benefits, night classes are being held where a study is made of such subjects as salesmanship, accounting, public speaking, advertising and many other matters of general interest.

During the winter it is the plan of this organization to widen the scope of these classes to include courses in music, literature, personality and other features that appeal to the cultural as well as the business side of life.

There are hundreds of young men in Atlanta who could benefit themselves by becoming members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and at the same time would become a part in a mighty force for the improvement and development of the city.

THE PINE PROBLEM.

When congress reconvenes in December a bill, introduced by Senator Fletcher, of Florida, providing for enlarging the naval stores experimental work of the forest service in the southern pine belt, will be pushed for enactment. By all means it ought to pass. The bill provides as follows:

"That for the purpose of determining and demonstrating the best methods of producing crude gum and increasing its yields from southern pine timber, the secretary of agriculture is hereby authorized and directed to conduct at the southern forest experimental station and elsewhere in the forest service such silvicultural, physiological, economic and other forest and laboratory experiments, investigations and demonstrations as may be necessary, either independently or in cooperation with other branches of the federal government, with states and other governmental agencies, universities, colleges, business organizations and individuals."

The forest service has said that this nation is using its forests four times as fast as they grow. Through

The Song on the Road.

O heart sing on, for song is best, To soothe the Care-lord's cries to rest.

As mothers soothe their children when they fret and weep, So careworn hearts may soothe long, But find at last their cure in song.

Sing, when Life's sky is veiled in gloom, And sunshine rays can find no room; Sing happy songs, devoid of pain, For song is singing not in vain; Tomorrow's bright sun you will see, And cloudless will the blue sky be.

Sing, heavy laden Road, The load you carry on Life's rocky road, You somehow will find strangely light, And see flowers blooming left and right.

Let songs of hope, sung tenderly, Inspire you with their melody, And bravely then you may depend, On Faith to guide you to the end.

At the time I printed this letter about Jim's views I remember the precaution of looking the quotation up in Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, saw that the correspondent had it all wrong, and let it go as he quoted it. I don't know how I failed to notice that it was credited to Shakespeare. Pope wrote this:

"Vice is a monster of such frightful mien, it is to be hated, that even his own face is full of wrinkles, when he looks on himself. He is a monster of such horrid mien as to be hated, even by his own face, when he looks on himself. He is a monster of such horrid mien as to be hated, even by his own face, when he looks on himself."

Quite a while ago I said something about the Scriptural injunction to "Know thyself." A dozen readers promptly challenged me to do the verse and chapter, and a few of them kindly informed me that the quotation was from Pope. These were the first batch of corrections. A little later came the second batch from readers who desired to tell me that this quotation came originally from Plutarch. Still later a third batch of letters from erudite persons to whom attention the matter had been brought in nearly every instance by some idle third person, and they begged to state that the saying was Plato's. Then trickling along week after week came a succession of batches of antiquarian, attitudinizing, and pedantic remarks to Pythagoras, Socrates, Aristotle, et al., have been searching Scripture ever since and I still cling to my error—some day I'm going to find the verse and chapter. I have three different versions and I shall be very disappointed if the verse and chapter is in at least one of them. The literary critics seem to sniff at Pope's stuff; they argue that he didn't know what he was writing in the essay on man, he just collected a bunch of snappy couplets and strung 'em together and put an imposing title on the job. Nevertheless, if I had to serve a sentence of 20 years at hard poetry I believe I'd choose Pope.

AN URGENT APPEAL.

Miami has made a heart-rending nation-wide appeal for "immediate funds" to meet the urgent relief demands in that city.

Five thousand homes have been destroyed. Twenty-five thousand people are homeless. The hospitals are congested. The more than 100 dead are not yet all buried.

The proud city of prosperity is prostrate.

There are many other Florida sections that must have immediate relief.

The Pensacola-Mobile area has been hard hit.

Atlanta is responding nobly, but her full quota of $150,000 should be raised, and quickly.

"We meet under the gloom of calamity," said Dr. Moor at Wednesday's mass meeting.

Let us give until it hurts! The Constitution will forward all contributions promptly through the proper channels.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

ANSWERED BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

Canton, Ohio.

Do you consider that the present vogue for detective stories has any connection with the so-called crime wave? If so, do you regard it as a healthy or unhealthy sign?

Some eminent thinkers and counter-espionage people have professed to present the detective story as a recreational reading. Although not the highest form of literature, it is preferable to much of the ash can variety of the present crime wave. The detective story is a book of the newsstands and the book-stores today.

It is very doubtful if the detective story has any appreciable connection with the present crime wave. One reads such tales immediately, the danger from that is negligible compared with that from tainted or decadent literature.

Raleigh, N. C.

"McCall's Magazine" recently published a powerful story entitled "The Gate," by Rudyard Kipling, which presented Judas Iscariot in heaven among the blessed.

What is your verdict on the fate of Judas in the world to come?

Since the keys of heaven and hell are not in his hands, I am content to leave the grand apostate to a just and merciful God.

Though Judas sinned like a devil, in his repentance he could have been an apostle. Jesus washed his feet in the upper room and fought for his soul to the last gasp. "ow he could resist the Master's final appeal, present in his betrayal, goes into the night; then, when it was too late, in an agony of remorse flung the blood money at the feet of the suffering Jesus, and his misery alone will solve."

I have read the brilliant story which you mention. It is reminiscent of Kipling's best work. It looks like the word of Christ about Judas: "It were better for that man that he had never been born."

Philadelphia, Pa.

As a peace lover I ask why it is that the programs for disarmament are so small and tentative and their realization apparently so difficult? Does not reason point the way for such a desirable end?

Undoubtedly reason is normally opposed to force and consequently in the history of the world, the military system is of ancient origin, while its tremendous increase is a modern phase which culminated destructively in 1914.

What is the way now before the nations in their continuance or non-continuance of competitive armaments?

The Affectionate Mule.

The Norborne Democrat tells this story which is vouched for by the editor:

"Alfred Burr, a well-known farmer of east of Norborne, suffered a rather painful accident. He was cleaning out a feed bin of a mule when the animal pawed him with its back foot, cutting a ugly gash in his forehead. Mr. Burr said this is the first time he ever heard of a mule kicking any one when its front foot was being held off the ground."

The Home Brew man of the Columbus Enquirer-Sun says: "I won without a circus is like a ladder without rungs."

Atlanta Citizen Complains About Reckless Motoring

Editor Constitution. A few years ago the property owners on North Howard street, between 12th and 13th streets, were induced to have North Howard street paved with concrete. The property owners are paying each year for the maintenance of this street, and the city is not paying for the maintenance of this street. The property owners are paying each year for the maintenance of this street, and the city is not paying for the maintenance of this street.

Well, the tax assessors have seen to it, each year, that higher values be placed upon North Howard street property and, in this way, taxation has been increased. This has been in the interest of tax gatherers and salaried office holders, but certainly not in the interest of the property owners. Far from it!

Since it was paved the street has become a thoroughfare for motor cycles, automobiles of all sorts, trucks and delivery wagons, the larger number of whose drivers know no law. On Sundays, from early dawn until late at night, the street is the arena of an orgy of automobile speeding, out-mufflers and other diabolical nuisances.

In the matter of police protection, the 12th ward is somewhat of an orphan. The writer does not blame the police for this distressing fact. On the contrary he knows enough about the conduct of the Atlanta police force to concede, unequivocally, that the police do the best they can in view of their limited number and the view they cannot be everywhere at the same time. It is a fact, nevertheless, that the 12th ward is practically without police protection. The president of North Howard street quite frequently expresses the opinion that if he were a policeman he would not appear on Howard street. This is an official capacity. This resident remarked on a recent Sunday afternoon as he stood and watched the speeding motorists slam back and forth on North Howard street that he had reached the conclusion that the two occasional police officers who ride on motorcycles up and down North Howard street once or twice on Sundays do so at the rate of 50 miles an hour because they are trying to get out of the way of the speeding autos. Thinking if they do not get out of the way they will be run over and killed.

During the past three or four months this writer has been making a careful study of the conduct of the police in the city of Atlanta, especially of the thousands upon thousands that pass to and fro on North Howard street, and the result is that he is quite sure the overwhelming majority of motorists are considerate of the rights of other people and do their best to obey the traffic laws. The autos that perpetrate the sort of outrages that take place on North Howard street every day in the week, especially on Sundays, number about 20 percent of those who use such vehicles elsewhere in the city of Atlanta. The police are not to be blamed for this. A plan is devised by which they can promptly and adequately punish such lawless motorists. The police are not to be blamed for this. ## TECH HIGH SENIORS ELECT OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR

Election of officers of the senior class of 1927 was held at Tech High Wednesday, with Kingsley Weatherly being elected to the office of president, J. C. Nunan was elected vice president, and Walton Davis, captain of the football team, was chosen for secretary and treasurer.

The senior class at Tech High is small this year in comparison to those of former years, and there were only 90 men present at the meeting.

Dr. H. H. Hines, principal of the school, addressed the gathering, taking up the subject of "The Thebanus" the annual which is published by the senior class. He said that the school at first that because of the small enrollment of the class an annual would not be published, but Mr. Cheney stated that the boys of the school are enthusiastic, and that in all probability elections for the staff would be held in a short while.

Allen Wheeler was elected cheer leader. T. A. George and J. T. Stringer were appointed as his assistants.

Black Butterflies

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS

Attorney Orson Hatch romantically with his ward and client, Dorinda Maxwell, for living alone in her big house since the death of her parents six months before. She replies that she won't give up the freedom her father never allowed her in his lifetime.

INSTALLMENT IV.

DORINDA'S ULTIMATUM.

For the moment Hatch's carefully cultivated selfishness fell away from him and his heart ached for Dorinda. She was so young, so alone, so pretty, so inexperienced, so cocksure, so stiff-necked. Of course she wanted the love and friendship she had never had, and she was reaching out to where she thought she could get them. Under the influence of this analysis he spoke more impulsively than he had done for years.

"Listen to me, child," he said, bending across his desk to emphasize his remarks with a wagging pink forefinger. "I'm telling you something. The Black Butterflies of the world will get you if you don't watch out! I've got to warn you. I'm the only one who has the right. Besides, I've known you all your life."

He heard his own words with surprise. It wasn't like him to get stirred up about anything or anybody, and probably it was not worth while, for his valedictory seemed to have left the girl unimpressed. She rose and held out a small, firm hand.

"You haven't known me all my life, Mr. Hatch," she gently corrected. "You were the only man who ever came to our house, but you never came except on business, and you never knew me at all. All you saw was a long-legged, frightened youngster scurrying into dark corners when she heard her father's voice. But I know you mean to be kind, and I'll think over what you have said."

Hatch, who had risen to face her, pressed the small hand. "Do," he urged, and again the embarrassed old baby, suddenly self-conscious, smiled at her. "And while you're thinking, engage a good chaperon to revise your address book!"

She shook her head. "I'm not promising anything, except to think."

She departed on this ultimatum, and young Goddard, who happened to appear at that moment with another sheet of papers, hastened to open the door for her.

Having glanced over the papers and dismissed the clerk, Hatch relaxed into his cushioned chair and wiped his pink brow with a spotless handkerchief. He felt tired and depressed. He was sure to have a lot of trouble with that girl! He ought to have taken her in hand months ago, before things got to such a pass. His own eloquence had impressed him if it had not affected her, and he saw the town's radicals and wastrels increasingly closing around her. However, he assumed that up till now no great harm was done. These days all young things talked about "wanting to live," and seemingly most of them thought the words had only one meaning. Perhaps they had. But the eyes of Dorinda, though they held the ravenous hunger of youth, were pools that reflected none of the darker aspects of living. He hoped he had spoken in time to save the foolish child from any serious results of her foolishness.

His thoughts turned to his dinner. Some broiled sweetbreads, perhaps, or grouse, and a glass or two of dry champagne might brighten him up. Nothing like a good meal to cheer a man after a hard day. The interview just ended had been a strain. But it had been effective—by this time Hatch was sure of that. He must feel sure of it, to quiet his internal conscience. He would keep a close eye on the girl in future, if he could remember to do it.

He relaxed deeper into the swivel chair, eyes closed and pink hands comfortably folded on his globular stomach, while he considered the respective merits of sweetbreads or grouse. The picture of Dorinda Maxwell and the black butterflies of the world faded out of his consciousness.

After all this effort it was disconcerting for Orson Hatch to learn, the following week, that his words had fallen on heedless ears. Miss Maxwell had given a party—a particularly lively party. His informant darkly mentioned, on three days after her call at the law offices. Hatch gathered that the tongues of her neighbors were exhausted by the labor of discussing the hectic details of this party. He frowned severely at his informant, who happened to be John Kimball, one of his partners.

"What the devil is that girl thinking of?" he irritably demanded; and when Kimball looked at him in surprise, he added resentfully: "I thought I had straightened her all out when she was here the other day. I talked to the creature like a Dutch uncle!"

Kimball nodded, tactfully concealing his conviction that Hatch could not, under any circumstances, say anything that would impress any girl. He was a small man with a misleading expression of mildness, but he held opinions that exploded like bombs and he had learned to avoid trouble by talking very little. He now refrained from expressing his theory that if Hatch ate less and thought more he would not get the firm into such a hole as the Maxwell affair was proving to be.

"When was the party?" Hatch asked.

"Last night."

"What are people saying about it?"

"O, that it appeared to be the limit. 'Necking' groups, and 'wossing' in upstairs chests, and a lot of drinking—all that sort of thing. Goddard may be able to tell you," he hastily added, as Hatch showed an inclination to break out again. "What I heard about the affair, beyond the bare fact that it took place, was something that ass Simpkins was telling Goddard this morning. Or you might ask Miss Maxwell for the details," he added helpfully. "Isn't she coming down today to sign some papers?"

"She is not," Hatch grimly assured him. "I'm sending them up to her. Two interviews in seven days with that young person seems more than my constitution will stand. Of course I've got to see her," he ruefully admitted, "but not till I've decided what to do." He broke off. "Send Goddard in here," he ended.

Goddard entered without the air of awe which would have been seemly in so young a man when in the presence of an established light of the bar.

"Are those Maxwell papers right yet?" Hatch asked, without looking up.

"Yes, sir. Here they are."

Hatch took them and glanced over them gloomily, experiencing a slight annoyance at finding nothing to complain about. When one has broken an excellent habit of restraint for the sake of a client it is disappointing to find the client unworthy of the effort made. The future, with that client in its immediate foreground, was a depressing vista to Hatch.

"Take them out to Miss Maxwell's house," he said at last, pushing the papers toward the young man. "The trolley goes within half a mile of it. Better telephone first and make an appointment. From what I hear of the young lady," he darkly added, "I fancy she isn't gracing the family hearthstone much of the time."

"Yes, sir," Goddard took the papers and turned toward the door. "Anything else?"

"Yes. Tell her I want to see her at four tomorrow, when I've given her case a little more thought. And—by the way—what do you know about that party of hers last night?"

Goddard permitted himself a glance of surprise.

"I wasn't there, sir. I have never met Miss Maxwell outside of this office except the night of Miss Davis' party."

"I'm not asking if you were at Miss Maxwell's party," Mr. Hatch pointed out, eagerly grasping this legitimate excuse for annoyance. "I'm asking what you know about it."

"Nothing at all, except from hearsay."

"Well, what have you heard?"

"The manner of Mr. Goddard became more deferential."

"Nothing, Mr. Hatch, except gossip."

"Well, well—"

"Which is too trivial to repeat," the young man ended sedately. "I will telephone Miss Maxwell at once," he added, as the door closed on his modest exit.

Hatch stared resentfully at his polished panels. Then his innate fairness asserted itself. Of course the cub was within his rights in refusing to repeat a lot of stuff that might hurt the girl. Come to think of it, he rather liked Goddard on the rare occasions when the young man really crossed his line of vision. Now he must decide what steps to take about this girl. She wasn't playing the game—she really wasn't. Most annoying. He would have to talk to Kimball about cutting her income in two. That might put on the brakes a bit.

Adams-Ross Wedding and Other Miss Janie Lawhon Affairs Planned for Today

The last week of September marks the departure of the remaining girls and boys off to schools and colleges, and the preparation for a very interesting social season. Although no definite dates have been announced, undoubtedly there will be many brilliant affairs during the season.

Of much importance on the social calendar today is the marriage of Miss Maxine Adams and John Bennett Ross, which will take place at 8 o'clock this evening at the All Saints' Episcopal church. A popular bride-elect who will be honored today is Miss Frances Pardee Traylor. She will be given a luncheon by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Dunham.

Other affairs planned for today will be the party at which Mr. and Mrs. Earle Gordon Thomas will be hosts this evening at their home, Taloga Lodge, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bert W. Owen. Mrs. F. C. Verett will give a bridge-party for Mrs. V. C. Almand, and Miss Nellie Allen will honor Miss Dorothy Barr at tea. A very worthwhile affair will be the benefit bridge party sponsored by the Witches club and the Hilaria class of the Baptist tabernacle for Helen Higginbottom, a blind rodigy.

Mrs. Almand to Be Honored.

Mrs. Otis F. Adair will entertain a bridge-party Tuesday at next week.

at her home on Peachtree road in compliment to Mrs. Virgil C. Almand, of St. Petersburg, Fla., formerly of Atlanta. Twelve friends of the honor guest will be invited.

WHOLE BODY ACHED--- FELT VERY DEPRESSED

"I was afflicted with constipation which caused me to have all sorts of pains and aches," said Mr. M. J. I am happy to say that it proved to be a well day for years. I tried many medicines, but received only temporary relief. For four years I could not work, and I thought I would never be well again. At times I could hardly move. Getting up and down out of my chair caused the most acute pain. My whole body ached. "I grew very depressed over my condition for I have always been very active, and it distressed me greatly not to be able to get about." "Some one told me to try Black-Draught for constipation which was the cause of all my sickness. I had tried so many things that I hadn't much faith, but I was doing no good as it was, so I thought it would not hurt to see what it would do for me. I am happy to say that it proved to be a well day for years. I took Black-Draught regularly for some time according to the directions. I very soon began to feel better. I gradually took up my work, and as I grew stronger I was able to accomplish more and more. "I am 61 years old, but feel as good as I did at 30. My appetite is good and I enjoy my meals. I keep a box of Black-Draught in the house always, and if I seem the least bit inclined to be constipated I take a dose or two, never allowing that condition to run on. I find it keeps me in good health, and I am now better than I have been in years." Sold everywhere: 25c & $1. Have you tried it? J.A.39

Rogers and A.P. stores will sell more than 3,000 pint bottles of Red Rock ginger ale every week.

Miss Janie Lawhon Weds Mr. Phillips, Jr., At Church Ceremony

A very interesting affair of Wednesday afternoon was the wedding of Miss Janie Luile Lawhon and William Russell Phillips, Jr., which was solemnized at 5:30 o'clock at the Oakland City Methodist church. Rev. H. Z. Taylor performed the ceremony in the presence of a large assembly of relatives and friends.

The ushers, seated first, two coming down each side aisle. They were Howard Lawhon, William Lawhon, Fain Abbott and Wilmer Kinberly. The maid of honor, Miss Verna Lee Avery, entered alone. Her gown was a lovely fall model of black satin, with rosewood trimmings. She carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses, showered with swainsons. The little flower girl, Martha Chaffin, cousin of the bride, entered carrying a basket of pink rosebuds, tied with pink tulle. She wore a dainty frock of green georgette.

Lovely Bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, L. H. Lawhon. She entered with him and was joined at the altar by the groom and his best man, Brooks Lowry.

Mrs. Phillips is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lawhon. She possesses a most unaffected charm and her friends are numbered by her acquaintances.

Mr. Phillips is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Phillips. He graduated in electrical engineering in the class of 1923 at the Georgia School of Technology, and now holds a responsible position with the Anchor Fire Proofing company.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left for Asheville, N. C., and on their return will make their home in Atlanta.

Miss Traylor Honored At Dinner-Dance At Biltmore Hotel

The dinner-dance, Wednesday evening at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel was one of the outstanding social affairs of the mid-week. Dinner was served at 8:30 o'clock in the Georgian ballroom of the hotel. On each of the tables a vase of pretty fall flowers were used to decorate the tables. Dancing began at 9 o'clock and continued until a late hour.

Miss Frances Traylor and Oley McCalland, of New York, whose marriage will be a social event of next Monday, were honor guests in the largest party of the evening, which was given by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Davis.

As the proceeds of this sale will be applied on the scholarship fund, any and all donations will be appreciated.

Kle Club To Give Benefit Party Friday.

The Kle club, social and charity unit of R. P. O. E. No. 78, will sponsor a large benefit and party Friday evening, September 24, at 8 o'clock in the Kle's club.

This party is for the benefit of the Christmas charity work of the club and is under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Ryder, Mrs. J. I. Coleman, Mrs. Frank Golden and Mrs. S. N. Freeman.

"Win One" Class Elects Officers.

On Friday the "Win One" class of the First Baptist church held an important meeting at which new officers were elected. The result of the election was as follows: President, Mabel Dollar; first vice president, Nellie Ellison; second vice president, Alice Durrell; third vice president, Pearl Whitton; secretary, Mary Pruitt; treasurer, Dolly Murray; reporter, Elizabeth Ellison.

Woman's Club Board Will Meet Friday.

The executive board of the Atlanta Woman's club will meet at the club Friday, September 24, 10:30 o'clock. A full attendance is requested. The Atlanta Woman's club will hold its regular meeting Monday, September 27, at 3 o'clock, the president, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, presiding. A most interesting program has been arranged, the topic for the afternoon being "Atlanta Safety Day." All members are invited to be present.

Things to Know Before Baby Comes

THE expectant mother's comfort and well being is very important. And one of the most important things for her to do is to use Mother's Friend to keep the skin and muscles soft and pliable—thus aiding the tissues and muscles to relax and adjust themselves to the changes during motherhood. ## Miss Baker Weds Mr. Barrett At Church Ceremony in Augusta

Augusta, Ga., September 22.—The marriage of Miss Cecelia Michel Baker and George Barrett Barrett took place at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. Julius Schaud officiating and Professor George A. Johnson at the organ. The church was decorated very effectively with palms, and ferns and tall floor vases filled with pink gaidioli and anemones. The only candles were the altar candles.

Bridal Party.

The groomsmen advanced first to the chancel, and numbered Stewart Phinizy and Warren Bothwell. Martin Covert and Ormond Hunter, of Savannah; Mr. Lanier, of Americus, and Eugene Baker, brother of the bride.

The bridesmaids entered in pairs, wearing gowns of pink taffeta, ankle length, made with tiny garlands of blue taffeta flowers around the scalloped edges of the wide skirts. The bodices were made high in the back and low in the front with a small vest of cream lace, and sleeveless. They wore picture hats with drooping brims of pink taffeta trimmed with the same little blue taffeta flowers that adorned the skirts. Pink satin slippers and bouquets of sunset roses completed the costumes.

The maid of honor, Miss Caroline Brown, of Atlanta and Augusta, wore a gown made like those of the maids, but of orchid trimmed in pale green, and a picture hat of orchid silk with tiny green flowers. Her flowers were pink roses.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride entered the church with her father, Dr. Charles Baker, by whom she was given in marriage, and she was radiantly beautiful in a gorgeous bridal gown of creamy Salome satin, elaborately embroidered in pearls and brilliant, and trimmed with side petals outlined with shimmering of tulle and pearls. The gown was made medium in length and low neck and sleeveless. The train from the shoulders was of satin with tulle.

the center outlined in pearls. Her wedding veil of tulle fell from a Juliet cap of pearls and completely enveloped her figure, falling to the length of the train. Her only jewels were pearl necklace and a pearl pin that were family heirlooms. Her flowers were bride roses showered with valley lilies.

Judge William T. Barrett, father of the groom, was best man, and they met the bride and her father at the chancel step.

After the recessional wedding march, the bridal party and a number of friends were entertained with a reception at the Gairdner home on Mill-edge street, on The Hill, which was elaborately decorated with palms, vines and quantities of red radiance roses and pink Columbia roses. The bride and groom received in the drawing room, and supper was served in the dining room where the color scheme was pink and white. The table was covered with fillet lace over damask cloth that has been used for several generations in the bride's family. Quantities of pink Columbia roses adorned the table and the room. Pink unshaded candles were used in massive silver and handsome family cut-glass. The bonbons and beautiful bride's cake, iced in Cherokee roses and orange blossoms carried out the pink and white colors. Tiny individual favors and the handpainted place cards marked the 16 places for the wedding party. Other guests were seated at small tables and punch was served on the back porch.

The bride's traveling suit was of brown and tan crepe romaine, worn with a hat of brown and tan, and her brown coat was lined with the same shade of tan.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett left for a trip to the mountains of North Carolina, and on their return they will make their home on The Hill.

Among the out-of-town guests were Clark Howell, Sr., of Atlanta; Mr. Clark Howell, Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, of Philadelphia; John Caswell, of Savannah; Ormond Hunter, of Savannah; Hollins Lanier, of Americus.

Prominent Families.
Mr. Barrett is the only son of Judge and Mrs. Charles Baker. His mother was Miss Mary Michel and belonged to one of Carolina's oldest and most aristocratic French families. She was class president for four years at Tulane and also president of her class at Winthrop college and editor of the college paper.

Mr. Barrett is the only son of Judge and Mrs. William H. Barrett. His mother was Miss Ella Barnes, daughter of Major George Barnes, noted congressman and Irish. He is a graduate of Georgia and also Harvard law school, and a member of the firm of Hull, Barrett & Willingham, and one of the most successful of the younger men at the bar.

Mrs. McCarty Honors Attractive Visitors.

Mrs. Allen Putnam, of New York, and her sister, Mrs. Thomas Dunham, of Miami, Fla., attractive visitors, were honor guests at the informal tea at which Mrs. George McCarty was hostess Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Dunham are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Traylor at their home on Piedmont avenue, having come to Atlanta to attend the marriage of their sister, Miss Frances Pardee Traylor, to Mr. Otis McClellan, of New York, September 27.

Miss Coles Entertains O. B. X. Sorority.

Miss Betty Coles entertained the members of the O. B. X. sorority Wednesday afternoon at her home on Peachtree circle.

The newly elected officers are: Miss Katherine Howell, president; Miss Gertrude White, vice president; Miss Hannah Stern, secretary; and Miss Sarah Adair, treasurer.

Miss Rena Bredosky Weds Nathan Thomas At Lovely Ceremony

Much interest centers in the marriage of Miss Rena E. Bredosky to Nathan Thomas, of Memphis, Tenn., which was solemnized on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room before an improvised altar with a background of palms, ferns and smilax. Vases of roses and bridehood were placed artistically about the rooms.

Miss Elsie Klein played the wedding march for the entrance of the bride.

Miss Doris Nathan, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and Mrs. I. Bredosky, mother of the bride, was matron of honor.

David Spielberger was best man and Niessen Bredosky and Samson Bredosky, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The bride entered with her brother, I. Bredosky, by whom she was given in marriage.

Lovely Bride.

The bride was smartly gowned in elect of next week, was honor guest a tan and brown model of crepe romaine with velvet hat and accessories to match.

Only the relatives and a few friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rabbi Geffen.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bredosky entertained at a lovely reception. In the receiving line beside the bride party were Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Thomas, of Memphis, parents of the groom.

The bride is a beautiful young girl and possesses a soprano voice of rare loveliness. She has sung on many occasions and is popular and loved by a host of friends and admirers.

Mr. Thomas is a prominent and successful young merchant from Memphis, Tenn.

After the reception the young couple left for an automobile trip to western points of interest.

State Street P.-T. A. To Meet.

The State Street P.-T. A. will hold its initial meeting for the new scholastic year Friday, September 24, at 3 o'clock. All patrons and friends cordially invited. The new patrons are especially invited.

Miss Frances Traylor Honored by Miss Brown.

Miss Frances Pardee Traylor, bride, was honor guest at the luncheon given Wednesday by Miss Frances Brown at her home on East Seventeenth street. Yellow sin-nias, filling a blue venetian glass, adorned the center of the lace-covered table, and covers were laid for 12 guests. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her sister Miss Maria Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Couer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farley, Jr., will entertain the members of the family at a buffet supper Sunday evening at their home on West Eleventh street in compliance to Miss Traylor and Mr. McClellan.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Traylor will also entertain in honor of Miss Traylor and Otis McClellan, of New York, whose marriage takes place Monday.

To Look Younger

follow this simple rule in skin care

By NORMA TALMADGE

By preserving youthful skin texture, it is making thousands look younger than their years

A WELL-KNOWN artist recently asked, "What's become of the 'middle-aged' woman? Has she completely disappeared?"

What's really happened is this: women have found that looking their years is a needless folly. Thus nearly everyone stays young these days.

The simple rule below has safeguarded natural complexion charm for more women than any other method known. Thousands employ it. Leading skin specialists urge it. Try it for one week. Let it prove its effects to you... the softening olive and palm lather of Palmolive Soap, used this way:

THE RULE—MAKE IT YOURS STARTING TODAY

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge, if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Follow these rules day in and day out. Your skin will be soft and lovely—naturally colorful and clear.

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any great soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond all doubt.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

It costs but 10c the cake! — so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use brings you. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Lassetter-Goldsmith Wedding Solemnized at St. Mark's Church

One of the most interesting weddings of the season, marked by beauty and dignity, was that of Miss Minnie Olivia Lassetter to Manning Miles Goldsmith, which was solemnized at St. Mark's Methodist church Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. J. B. Mitchell, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

Bridal Party.

The bridesmaids and groomsmen entered down separate aisles. First to enter were Miss Evelyn Donohoo and Franklin Chambers, followed by Miss Elizabeth Lassetter and Eugene Martineau, Miss Stella Goldsmith with Homer Aver, Miss Genevieve Connell with William Davis and Miss Beatrice North with Anthony Green.

Next to enter was Miss Christine Lassetter, maid of honor, sister of the bride, who was wearing a gown of yellow crepe heavily beaded in rhinestones and pastel beads. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and white lilies.

The little flower girl, Mary Elizabeth Vandeman, wore pink gossamer over pink satin trimmed with tulle of the same material, and hand-made flowers. She carried a dainty French basket of vari-colored flowers tied with lavender tulle.

The bride entered with her brother, Lewis Lassetter, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Henry Goldsmith, who acted as best man.

Lovely Bride.

The lovely bride formed a picture of exquisite beauty in her bridal robes of white duchess satin trimmed with seed pearls and rhinestones, with flowers of the same material applied with seed pearls. Real lace fashioned a panel which formed the entire front of the gown. The basque waist, which was shirred at the waist line to the full skirt, was particularly becoming to the bride's slender type of beauty.

Her bridal veil of tulle was attached to her hair with a coronet of rose-point lace outlined with seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her court train was made of duchess satin beaded in pearl design. The bride's only ornament was a platinum and diamond bracelet, a gift from the groom, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and valley lilies showered with narrow white satin ribbons.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. Goldsmith and his bride left for

Prominent Families.

Mrs. Goldsmith is the daughter of Mrs. Jessie Albright Lassetter and the late David Lewis Lassetter. On the maternal side she is descended from the widely-known Hopson and Albright families of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee, and the Lassetter and Robinson families of Virginia and South Carolina.

Mr. Goldsmith is the son of Manning Goldsmith and the late Mrs. Stella Miles Goldsmith. He traces his ancestry through the Miles and Wilson families of New York and the prominent Goldsmith and Dent families of Georgia and South Carolina.

Mrs. Thomas Honors Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs.

Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, who leaves at an early date for a trip around the world, was guest of honor at the luncheon given Wednesday, at Habersham hall, with Mrs. Irving Thomas as hostess.

Invited to meet Mrs. Jacobs were Mesdames Katherine Conner, Charles Loridaus, J. C. Gentry, A. R. Colcord, C. K. Ayer, H. G. Carnes, James T. Williams, Norman Sharp, Alonzo Richardson, A. R. Treadwell, John Hornady, Brigham and Albert Milligan.

TWO WOMEN PRAISE SAME MEDICINE

Both Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"After the birth of my little daughter I was very badly run-down. I could not think of going to a hospital, but grew steadily worse, being compelled to stay in bed two or three days each week. A friend of my sister's told of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her, and I had not taken all of one bottle when I was up and able to do some work. I am truly a booster for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you may use my testimony."

—Mrs. Maxine Lyvett, 1119 Island Ave. Ext., McKee's Rocks, Pa. Mrs. Hope L. Smith, a farmer's wife of Route 3, Floyd, Va., says she was ill for ten years with a good deal of pain in her side and so weak she could hardly work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her so much she is telling her friends about it.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

INDIAN TERRITORY WAS ESTABLISHED BY CONGRESS IN THE ARKANSAS RIVER VALLEY IN 1834 AS A GREAT RESERVATION TO WHICH ALL THE RED MEN LIVING EAST OF THE MISSISSIPPI COULD BE MOVED.

THE INDIANS WERE GIVEN ASSURANCES BY THE GOVERNMENT THAT THEY WOULD NEVER AGAIN BE MOVED AND THAT THEY WOULD BE UNDISTURBED BY WHITE SETTLERS.

THEY WERE PERMITTED TO ROOM AT WILL ON THE RESERVATION, TO HOLD THEIR TRIBE COUNCILS AND EXECUTE THEIR TRIBAL LAWS.

THE RESERVATION INDIANS WERE WARDS OF THE GOVERNMENT AND WERE GIVEN TOOLS, BLANKETS, AND SUPPLIES BY FEDERAL INDIAN AGENTS.

BY 1942 ABOUT 125,000 INDIANS HAD BEEN MOVED WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI AND ONLY THE SCATTERED REMNANTS OF ONCE POWERFUL NATIONS REMAINED IN THE EAST.

New York, September 22.—(P)—A more reactionary sentiment developed in the cotton market today, based on the extent of recent declines but after an early advance to 16.12, December broke to 15.81 in late trading, or 17 points net lower and into new low ground for the present movement.

Closing prices were at the lowest of the day, with the market weak at net declines of 12 to 18 points. The reactionary and steady tone of the earlier market was promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables, rumors of a settlement of the British coal strike and belief that the south-east storm might have caused greater damage to the crop than had yet been realized.

Offerings seemed to increase around 15.94 for October and 16.22 for January, however, and the market weakened later under continued hedge selling with a renewal of liquidation and reselling by early buyers. The weekly report of the weather bureau contained references to insect and storm damage in the south, but on the whole seemed as favorable as expected, and 57.8 and crop 15,500,000 bales and if anything, probably encouraged some of the early afternoon selling.

October sold off to 15.83 and January to 15.90 in late trading, or the lowest price touched since the advance to 18.25 for December contracts on December 8. Two more private mid-month crop reports were published, one making the indicated crop 15,045,000 and the other 15,500,000 bales. According to a canvass made by members of the New York cotton exchange, on the average, are expecting a government crop indication of 15,244,000 bales tomorrow. Exports for day 27,717, making $47,323 so far this season. Port receipts, 57,145. U. S. port stocks, 552,797.

New Orleans, September 22.—(P)—The cotton market developed a further decline today in moderate trading. Although the start was steady with a small gain of 10 or 12 points, the market soon turned easier on pre-bureau influences, particularly the expectation of traders that the government report tomorrow will show a larger indicated crop than it did two weeks ago. There was also a good deal of hedge selling and comparatively little constructive support. As a result prices declined nearly all the day, the session with only trifling rallies from time to time and finally showing a decline from the highs of 33 to 35 points. There was a moderate rally of 7 to 9 points in the late trading and the close was steady, showing net losses of 16 to 17 points for the day. Two private crop reports were issued today, one making condition 57.8 and crop 15,500,000 bales and the other condition 55.7 and crop 15,045,000 bales. The average guess of members of the New York Cotton exchange as to crop was 15,244,000 bales. As Liverpool came in better than due, first trades here were 1 to 7 points up and prices gained a little more right at the start, October trading up to 15.92, December at 16.10 and January at 16.14, or 10 to 12 points above yesterday's close. These were the highs of the day. The reaction which soon set in carried prices downward steadily, the low points being reached in the last hour with October at 15.59, December at 15.75 and January at 15.80, or 23 to 35 points down from the highs and 21 to 24 points under the previous close. There was a rally of moderate proportions in the final trading. Exports for the day totaled 27,717 bales. Port receipts, 57,145. U. S. port stocks, 552,797.

These were the highs of the day. The reaction which soon set in carried prices downward steadily, the low points being reached in the last hour with October at 15.59, December at 15.75 and January at 15.80, or 23 to 35 points down from the highs and 21 to 24 points under the previous close. There was a rally of moderate proportions in the final trading. Exports for the day totaled 27,717 bales. Port receipts, 57,145. U. S. port stocks, 552,797.

New Orleans, September 22.—(P)—The cotton market developed a further decline today in moderate trading. Although the start was steady with a small gain of 10 or 12 points, the market soon turned easier on pre-bureau influences, particularly the expectation of traders that the government report tomorrow will show a larger indicated crop than it did two weeks ago. There was also a good deal of hedge selling and comparatively little constructive support. As a result prices declined nearly all the day, the session with only trifling rallies from time to time and finally showing a decline from the highs of 33 to 35 points. There was a moderate rally of 7 to 9 points in the late trading and the close was steady, showing net losses of 16 to 17 points for the day. Corporation Surplus Tax Proves Chief Topic on Highly Professional Stock Market.

New York, September 22.—Weakness in the stock market, which up to noon yesterday had for days been the outstanding feature, was not in evidence today. The subject uppermost in Wall street discussion was the 50 per cent tax on accumulated surplus which so far has been evaded by the corporations. It was reported in this column Monday that something is happening in this corporation surplus situation. According to the rumors now being heard, final plans of the government to force the hands of corporation in forced surplus tax situation have been held up awaiting the return from abroad of Secretary Mellon.

Since Mr. Mellon's return it is now being reported that Mr. Mellon and President Coolidge have held a conference and agreed to go ahead with the government's plans for forcing the hands of corporations having a large accumulated surplus.

Surplus Shares. A list hurriedly made of railroads having a large surplus shows: Norfolk & Western, with $80,000,000; Illinois Central, with $71,000,000; Atlantic Coast Line, with $63,000,000; Great Northern, $59,000,000; Lackawanna, $123,000,000; New York Central, $157,000,000; Northern Pacific, $163,000,000; Union Pacific, $188,000,000; Atchafalaya, $209,000,000; Southern Pacific, $328,000,000. These figures do not include other items which should be in the accumulated surplus and same is true of industrial corporations such as: DuPont, $68,000,000; General Electric, $85,000,000; Consolidated Gas, $121,000,000; Allied Chemical, $141,000,000; General Motors, $200,000,000; Standard Oil of New Jersey, $340,000,000; with other Standard Oil companies having a large surplus. The steel corporation, with $221,000,000 all of the American Telephone companies with a combined surplus of $748,000,000.

With elections coming on, it will be good politics to force the hand of corporations in this matter. But the 50 per cent tax on surplus. Certainly it will appeal to the "poor" stockholder. Likewise, it will lighten the load of "poor" taxpayers who are being asked to contribute to a complete reversal of speculative sentiment. The something that happened

Headed Downward. In the face of the Florida hurricane, with its destruction of property, and the renewal rate of 5-1-2 per cent for call money, the stock market yesterday was headed downward with the momentum increasing when some thing happened to bring about a complete reversal of speculative sentiment. The something that happened

Rail Equipment. Chairman Woodin, of American Railroad & Foundry, returning from abroad, said with railroads handling the present heavy volume of traffic "it seems certain they must soon buy new equipment." The weekly reviews on the iron and steel trade stated developments the past week all point to continued activity.

In Memoriam.

W. B. ENGESSER.

Died September 21, 1925.
 Dear father, you have left us;
 And your smiles we see no more,
 Our hearts are filled with sadness,
 For no time can heal that sore.
 I.
 More and more each day we miss you.
 Friends all think that the wound is healed.
 But they little know the sorrow

That is in our hearts concealed.
II.
We often sit and think of you, dear father,
When we are all alone;
For memory is the tender friend
That grief can call its own.
III.
What is home, without a father?
All the things a world may send—
For when we lost the dearest father,
We lost our dearest friend.
IV.
Is more the crown of patience?
Through the years he struggled on,
And these hands he clasp'd forever
Are the hands that made our home.
V.
Soft and bright the stars are shining,
Spreading o'er a lonely grave,
And the angels, with their harps,
Are singing to the soul that lives.

Whom we tried so hard but could not save.
 MRS. W. B. ENGESSER,
 MR. and MRS. ROBT. C. SMITH,
 Mr. and MRS. W. M. ENGESSER,
 MR. and MRS. DAVID BAER,
 MR. and MRS. DAN KAY.
